PREFATORY NOTE.

The extent and variety of its newspaper and periodical collections is one of the most striking and satisfactory evidences of the general activity of the Department of Archives and History. Their value to students of Southern and Alabama history has been demonstrated in many ways, and the files are constantly in demand by local students and visitors for consultation, comparison and reference. They are being constantly drawn upon in the special work, researches and investigations of the Department.

In order to make the collection more generally useful, and to indicate its strength this check list has been prepared. An examination will reveal many interesting items. Particular attention is directed to the very full files for the following Alabama towns: Birmingham, Brewton, Calera, Carrollton, Eufaula, Florence, Gainesville, Greensboro, Huntsville, Jacksonville, Mobile, Montgomery, Selma, Talladega, Tuscaloosa, and Tuskegee; and also to the lists of Georgia, New York, and South Carolina files. The collection contains the following sets of important periodicals: The Southern Review, The Southern Quarterly Review, and the Southern Agriculturist, Charleston; American Antiquarian, Chicago; Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Richmond; American Historical Magazine, Nashville, Tenn.; Educational Review, New York; Publications of the Southern History Association, Washington, D. C.; Bulletin of the New York Public Library; and the American Historical Review, New York.

Through the courtesy of publishers, for which public acknowledgment is here made, the Department is receiving practically all current issues of the Alabama newspaper and periodical press. They have accumulated rapidly, and are carefully preserved. Except in a few cases, however, these have not as yet been bound, and are therefore not listed herein.

The arrangement is alphabetical, first, by States, and secondly, by towns or places of publication. In the case of the Alabama files, the name of the county follows the name of the town. The arrangement is also chronological under each town as near as practicable. No effort has been made to observe bibliographical niceties, or to give a history of any of the papers represented. In a general way the form for such work adopted by the Library of Congress in its Check List of American Newspapers (1901) has been followed. Elsewhere will be found a list of abbreviations.
